

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Apex HCM announces the launch of their next generation mobile app to include GPS Timekeeping functionality

The MyGO mobile application allows employees the ability access Payroll, Human Resource, Benefits, and Time & Attendance information

Roswell, GA. (December 2, 2019) – Available today, from Apex HCM, is the NEXT generation mobile app, MyGO, for both iPhone and Android phone users. The app is aimed at providing employees the ability to “self-serve,” or access their Human Resource and Payroll information at their convenience from the palm of their hand.

For years, human resource information systems have been largely transactional in nature. The MyGO mobile application flips that script by engaging employees through an intuitive and modern user experience and workflow that fundamentally changes the relationship between employee and employer. The app features enhanced maps and geo-fencing, powered by Google; in-app text, call, and email capability, as well as enhanced speed and performance across the application.

Wes Muschara, Vice President of Product Management with Apex HCM stated, “The speed at which technology evolves, forces providers like Apex HCM to rapidly advance and deliver upon heightened user expectations. The NEXT MyGO mobile app delivers on that premise of combining modern technology with a user experience that one might expect from a consumer app on their phone.”

The app is available now and can be found on both Google Play and Apple Stores. MyGO is optimized for most major Android and iOS devices, and does require the employer to have a My Employer on the GO subscription to support employees’ usage of the application. There is no charge to employees for the use of this application
